Windows XP SP4 Unofficial X64

Windows XP SP4 Unofficial is an XP SP4 (Service Pack 4) compatible package of updates created to increase the security of your computer without requiring you to upgrade to a newer Windows version. It is an unofficial package that integrates the latest official updates and it is provided by official supply chain manufacturers. The package is compatible with 32-bit versions of Windows XP with Service Pack 1 installed and it can be deployed on an installation media. The package includes the Win7 Compatibility Kit, which includes Windows 7 Office Compatibility Pack (as well as Office 2013), Windows Server 2003 SP2, Windows Server 2003 SP1, and Windows Server 2008 SP2, which will make your pre-SP3 system compatible with the latest Windows version. Furthermore, it integrates .NET framework versions from 1.0 to 4.0 (including DirectX for Managed code in .NET 3.5), MSXML40 SP3, Adobe Flash Player (updated until May 2014), Internet Explorer 8, Windows Media Player 11, XPS Viewer EP, IMAPIv2, Remote Desktop Connection Client 7.0, Windows Search 4.0, Windows Installer 4.5, the QFECheck tool (which you can use to verify that the hotfixes were correctly installed) and November 2013 Revoked roots and Root certificates. The package is compatible with Windows XP SP4 and does not depend on the same/older Windows 2000 SP3 version. Furthermore, it lets users keep their Windows XP product keys, so that you can replace it by the one of your new Windows version. For safety reasons, the package also comes with the GINA security patch that it allows you to disable or bypass GINA, which is used to verify your Windows XP license.
