After the US has just ended its second ever war in Iraq, the talking heads on the left and the right are predicting that in 2015, George Bush will somehow be the savior of the world and they will begin deifying him again. The left wants to invade Syria, using the same ISIS argument that is being used in Iraq. They want to expand the war in Iraq and Syria by deposing more brutal dictators. The right wants to continue going on these illegal and unwinnable wars. They are trying to capitalize on the desire for change that the US is experiencing by adding up to 50 more years of the same failed policies. Both sides of the aisle are unwilling to take a deep breath and do what is best for the American people. They are both looking at George Bush's reelection victory in 2012 as the start of another war. The idiot left is getting caught up in their Obama worship because Barack Obama successfully implemented many of the initiatives that they wanted the previous president to do. They believe that they are making progress in their efforts to further enrich themselves and further screw the middle and lower class. The left won't stop and listen to the American people. They would rather destroy the country that made them successful than allow the people to determine their own destiny. The idiot right wants to continue being stupid and counterproductive because their voters want to do so. Here are some things that we can do to fix this: 1. Move to impeach Bush and Cheney and put Hillary in as president. As far as the idiots are concerned, if the previous two presidents were doing such an amazing job at protecting our country, there is no reason to fear ca3bfb1094
