Dungeon crawler with ARPG elements. It has been a while since we last played a game on this scale. Sadly that was the last time the keyboard actually worked in our gamepad. Now we both have controllers, so we can finally play the game we have always wanted to play! I know a lot of you did not even know there was a game on this scale, or what a dungeon crawler is. That's okay, I'm sure you will be able to play and enjoy the game. For those of you who are interested, this game is a mix of ARPG and twitch-based dungeon crawls. Each dungeon will have to be taken on and beat with Sword in hand. Each character has their own set of powers and abilities, and you will have to learn how to use them to your advantage. When you take an enemy down, you will get a chance to save the fallen. You will have to pick up loot, equipment, and other goodies to upgrade your character. The worlds are procedurally generated, so no two games will be alike. Once the dungeons are complete, you can then download and continue on other worlds. There are over 100 characters to choose from. They vary in class, race, and weapon proficiency. Plus you will have a guild to help you on your journey. All of the music in the game was composed by me. I wrote, performed, mixed, and mastered the final version. Persona 5 Screenshots Persona 5 Demo for PS4 Kanatogen 07-06-2017 This week, we're ready to demo the PS4 version of your all-new favorite! The criteria for this design is extremely low cost, that the optics can be made of low cost material, and that there be a sufficient number of degrees of freedom for the system to be able to compensate for thermal motion to the point of stability. For fine tracking, I would like to use a low power laser emitting a reflected signal that is used to determine the displacement of the object. This is the method used in the video below. Is this a suitable method
