Carrie Underwood and Her Hubby Just Shared the Best Father's Day Gift We're just putting a bow on the best Father's Day gift of all: Carrie Underwood and her husband, Mike Fisher, shared this precious video on Instagram. Awwww. The cutest. In the clip, Mike walks Carrie in on a surprise. "Lara caught my eye," Mike says. After revealing his daughter in her new baby bonnet, Mike and Carrie cry while Lara looks on, beaming. When it's all done, Mike says "Happy Father's Day!" to which Carrie replies, "Thank you!" of the universe. When asked about what he thinks is next, Clarke's is not forthcoming. He shrugs and smiles, takes a long, deep breath, and chooses one word: "Challenge." "The past 10 years of my life have been very good years," he says. "I am excited to see where the next 10 years take me." He looks down at the floor and swipes his fingers along the smooth coffee table, and then along his arm. "But I don't know what that's going to look like. "I know how hard my life has been," he continues. "I know how much I have to overcome. I don't look back and think: 'This was easy,' or 'I did that easily.' " Instead, he looks forward and says: "I try to think: 'This is what I can do to be better.' "I have no choice but to keep going. That's the only thing we have. We have each other. That's the only thing that gets us through the day. And the day after that." The way he says it, smiling still and with eyes crinkled at the corners, is endearing. His voice is light, playful. So he must think he's found this place in a funhouse. What he has, however, is a gift, a superpower: He has remained in good health all these years. Ask Clarke how he does it, and he will say: "I don't. I just try to be healthy. I just try to eat well, and play sports, and just try to live a healthy lifestyle." So far, he hasn't needed to invoke any superpowers. * * * And he's not alone. The young men and women around him are also young, healthy, tough, strong, and driven. They have the drive to be successful, to excel in the classroom, on the field, and in the living room. They stay focused on what they're doing. They don't complain. They don't blame. They do. And they also don't stop trying to do better. * * * After the games, teammates and friends gather around for a cookout and fellowship. A few members of the organizing committee are here as well. As the food cooks, they sit together, cross their legs, and discuss the rest of the games. "
