FLUID - This option lets you blend two different layers or two different images together in a single layer, without sacrificing any of your original images. For example, if you want to apply an overlay to a photo, but don't want to lose any of the original photo, this is the option you need. To use this option simply press the ALT key while selecting the layer or image you'd like to use for this action, and a new layer will be created that is the combination of both of the selected items. You can also use more than two items by combining them using the FLUID option.

TRANSPARENT - This option lets you combine two different layers. To illustrate, you can "cut" out a layer from another layer, which is exactly what it sounds like. You just paint a selection over the area you want to remove from the background. To use this option, select a layer to copy, and press Alt+Ctrl+T to copy the layer. Go in and erase what you don't need from the new layer, and then press the ALT key once you've done that. Then choose the option you see here, and it will copy and paste the layer.

SOFT LIGHT - This option is pretty self-explanatory. You use it to impose a blur effect over a layer. It also works for massaging colors on text, where you'd use something like the "DEEP BLUE" option to lighten a color or make it bluer.

DEEP BLUE - This option is great for bleaching or softening colors of images. When we used it by itself, it's layered over the image to be processed. First select the color you want to effectively "bleach out," and you press ALT+U to open the Layer Options Menu, and then choose Blend > Deep Blue. That's it. 933d7f57e6
