The Suitelet then submits a sales order to a third party web service and waits for it to return a response. The Suitelet passes the response back to a Form. When I send the Form to submit it successfully, the Suitelet's 'response' event is fired. But, when I return an empty response from the Form, the Suitelet doesn't fire the 'response' event. Can anyone see why this is? NB: The Suitelet is in Sales for distribution channels. For some reason, this class isn't allowed to be used in a Suitelet. A: Looks like this is a bug that is going to be fixed in the next release. Q: NTP Time Synchronization in Linux Recently I have installed a web server in my office. I have installed NTP Server on my office PC to keep the time of my server's clock same with the internet's time. And if the internet's time is changed the server's clock's time is automatically changed. I have done this by using following command in Linux: `sudo ntpdate -u time.nist.gov` I would like to know, why do we need to install NTP Client on our PC so that it can synchronize our PC's clock with the internet's time? A: In addition to setting your system clock via NTP, there are scenarios where you want to avoid this step. For instance, when you install a new system, you are often given an option to select which server should be used to synchronize your time. If you don't do this, then your system won't be able to fall back to an alternative clock source (e.g. GPS) when the NTP server times out. Texas State Highway 207
